

Requested versus actual nested low-data counts
Absolute levels are requested counts; percentage levels are fractions of the full primary training split.
Percentage requests may alias an absolute canonical level.

